The Art of Fireclay Sinks

In the heart of Lancashire, where the tradition of fireclay sink making began in the late 1800s, we continue a legacy built on craftsmanship, thoughtful design, and enduring quality. As the only British-owned fireclay sink manufacturer today, Whitebirk Sink Company carries this heritage forward with a modern vision.

Our mission is simple: to keep the tradition of fireclay sink making alive, by creating beautifully crafted products that reflect expert skill, specialist knowledge, and lasting value.

We believe that true quality never rushes. From raw clay to finished glaze, every Whitebirk sink tells a story of heritage, precision, and quiet luxury. No two are ever exactly alike—each one shaped by hand, with subtle variations that make it uniquely yours.

To honour our roots, each sink draws its name from landscapes, villages, and valleys of Lancashire - echoes of the region that shaped our craft and continues to inspire it today.

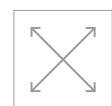

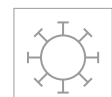

We celebrate our legacy through sinks that blend flawless design, everyday practicality, and enduring strength. Shaped to be lived with and loved, the Whitebirk sink brings a trace of history into your kitchen, where stories are shared, and the heart of the home comes to life.

What makes a Whitebirk sink special

Our sinks offer more than timeless beauty. Each one is expertly crafted, kiln-fired at extreme temperatures, and finished with a resilient glaze—delivering exceptional durability and effortless everyday use.

To uphold the highest standards, every sink undergoes a rigorous quality control process. Our tolerances meet or exceed British, European, and North American regulations, and our strict inspection procedures ensure that:

-  No sink exceeds specified tolerance at any corner.
-  Each transfer logo must be level with no visible distorted detail.
-  All sizes measured are within specification tolerances.
-  Any measurable distortion is within specified tolerances for the size of the product.
-  The outlets are free of debris allowing the waste fitting to retain the desired seal.
-  Less than 1.5mm of water remains in the bowl when drained.
-  Sinks meet the criteria for a guaranteed lifetime warranty.
-  Materials are chemical resistant.
-  Created using a powerful, natural material.
-  Suitable for recycling.
-  Integrated antibacterial effect.

Built to endure, each sink is highly resistant to impact, heat, stains, and odours, with a non-porous glazed finish that stays rust-free and fade-resistant for years to come.

Spacious bowl designs make everyday tasks easier, while the timeless aesthetic suits both traditional and modern kitchens.

Made from sustainably sourced clay and backed by a lifetime warranty, every Whitebirk sink is crafted to be a lasting presence at the centre of your home.

Please note

Because each of our sinks is individually handcrafted and kiln-fired, slight variations in size—up to $\pm 2\%$ —can occur. For this reason, we recommend your kitchen fitter waits to measure the sink before making any cuts to cabinets or worktops. Due to their weight and artisanal nature, sinks should be installed by a professional and securely supported.

LIFETIME WARRANTY

At Whitebirk, we're committed to delivering not only beautifully made fireclay sinks, but also the confidence that comes with exceptional service and long-term support.

Every Whitebirk sink is backed by a comprehensive lifetime warranty—our way of standing behind the quality we craft and the trust you place in us.

The Rill Collection

02.

Fluted-front sinks inspired by the movement of water

Defined by its distinctive fluted front panel, The Rill Collection celebrates movement, texture, and the artistry of traditional British craftsmanship. Named after the gentle streams that weave through the countryside, each sink evokes the rhythm of water—graceful, purposeful, and enduring.

The vertical fluting on every single and double bowl sink is more than just a design detail—it's a tactile expression of form and function. Handcrafted in fireclay and kiln-fired for strength, these sinks bring depth and character to the kitchen, echoing a time when utility was beautiful by nature.

With its strong lines and soft flow, The Rill Collection brings a timeless aesthetic to modern living—where heritage is felt not just in style, but in every touch.

Barley

The Barley sink is a flawless selection for contemporary homes with modern and vintage aesthetics. Its standout feature is the captivating fluted front design and precise clean edges, setting it apart from other sinks. While it boasts a traditional charm on its own, when paired with contrasting coloured cabinets, it transforms into a bold statement of modernity, adding a touch of sophistication to your home. At the same time, it effortlessly creates a timeless look with ample space for creating meals and cherished memories. The sink's durable hand craftsmanship makes it an ideal choice for both homeowners and renovation projects, as it ensures a robust design and premium materials for long-lasting quality and beauty.
